GolfAchiever and PGM Universities Team Up

GolfAchiever, the most accurate, affordable and all-in-one Golf Simulator is chosen by top PGM schools as a key tool in their curriculum.

PGA
Golf Management

For the past month, the University of Colorado in Colorado Springs (UCCS) PGM students have been using the GolfAchiever Simulator, GA SIM, and the testimonials and positive feedback are already coming in. PGM student standout, Zach Brehm frequently uses the GolfAchiever system at the school's indoor player development center. Zach, who's studying to become a certified PGA Professional, uses the GolfAchiever system to keep his game in top form. "The GolfAchiever is the first simulator that provides the best of both worlds when it comes to launch monitors and golf simulation. Its impeccable 3D graphics and accurate shot data validate that the GolfAchiever system is the best launch monitor and simulator I've ever used!", Zach stated.

Other PGM schools are expected to follow suit throughout this Fall and Winter, spreading the knowledge and power that the GolfAchiever enables for use in education, instruction, and entertainment.

Welcome GA users to GA Tips. Each month we'll release useful tips for our GA users. This month we'll focus on printing options while using GA Basic.

For those users that are unaware, pressing ALT and clicking the print icon in GA Basic brings up an alternate print screen and format that users can print out. The normal print function shows ball speed, club speed, launch angle, azimuth, and carry distance. This alternate print screen shows a comprehensive report of the last 10 shots, which includes detailed per shot and statistical averages information on all parameters measured by GolfAchiever.

For a Club fitter, the expanded print data provides additional points which can be provided to the customer during a fitting session. For instructors and personal use, it can be used to track progress from lesson to lesson.
